

A method for the synthetic psychotherapy relates to medicine, namely to psychotherapy and can be used for treating and rehabilitating the persons with the problems of the psychological origin, suffering from neurotic, psychosomatic and somatopsychic disorders due to stress.