

Source of seismic vibrations has transport base, emitter arranged as plates each of which is equipped with flat coil connected to source of current, and inertial mass. To increase effectiveness of seismic survey emitter is arranged as separated with inert mass two pairs of plates the upper of which is at one side connected to inert mass and at the other side – to transportation mean.