

A method of mechanotherapy in children includes placing of a gag on occlusal surfaces of molars. A gag has varying height and is made of a sweet bright yellow flexible-elastic consistency made from inert for oral cavity C-silicone mass in the form of animals.