

The clamp for high frequency electric welding in laparoscopy with the diffuser of the medicamentous agents contains two movable metal parts possessing contact areas and electrodes for high frequency electric welding applied to the specified regions. In addition, the clamp contains the canal with two proximal inlets for the medicamentous agents sprayed through the diffuser at the distal end.