

Thermoelectric medical device for cryodestruction consists of a power supply, a cooling unit and a working tool. The working tool contains a high-efficiency thermoelectric module, a liquid heat exchanger and a coaxial hose in which the liquid refrigerant circulates.